Four of Urschel Kidnapers Get Life Terms Today

SENTENCED IN GOVT'S COURT IN OKLA. CITY

George Kelly And His Wife Enter Pleas Of Not Guilty

Oklahoma City, Oct. 7.—(AP)—As George (Machine Gun) Kelly was being marched from the federal court room today, he turned to Charles F. Urschel and made another threat against the oil man he is accused of kidnapping.

"You'll get your yet, you..." Kelly muttered with a sneer.

He drew his index finger across his own neck in a throat-cutting gesture.

An officer quickly hustled Kelly outside.

Urschel ignored the incident.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Harvey Bailey and three others today were sentenced to life imprisonment for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire. Two others were given five-year terms, and the seventh a 10-year suspended sentence.

In addition to Bailey, Albert Bates and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. (Boss) Shannon were ordered incarcerated for the rest of their lives. Armon Shannon, their son, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, and the sentence then suspended.

Edward (Barney) Berman and Clifford Skelley, Minneapolis, accused as "money changers" in disposing of part of the ransom money, were sentenced to five years each.

The penalties were imposed by Federal Judge F. Vaughn under the "Lindbergh" kidnap law.

Berman and Skelley were brought into the case as "money changers," being arrested in connection with an effort to dispose of about $1,600 of the marked currency with which the ransom, totalling $200,000, was paid.

The Shannons were residents of the Texas farm where Urschel was held prisoner while negotiations for his ransom were carried on, and the federal prosecutors described them as guards over the kidnaped man.

Kellys Deny Guilt

Meanwhile, George (Machine Gun) Kelly, who with Bates was named as being the actual kidnapers of Urschel, his wife, Kathryn Kelly, entered pleas of not guilty to kidnaping charges. This reversed previous plans which District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde had announced for the couple to plead guilty.

Bailey, notorious outlaw who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary last Memorial Day and broke out of the county jail at Dallas on Labor Day, only to be recaptured at Ardmore, Okla., a few hours later, was captured on the Shannon farm with $700 of the ransom money in his possession.

Bates was pointed out by Urschel as one of the two men who forced him to leave a bridge game at his mansion at the point of a machine gun and took him to the Shannon farm.

Identified By Victim

Urschel has identified Kelly also as one of the kidnapers and E. E. Kirkpatrick, intermediary for the oil man, said it was Kelly who collected the ransom money in Kansas City.

After passing the sentences Judge Vaughn recessed court until 11:30 A. M. CST and attorneys and court officials suggested a development in the status of the Kellys' case might come at that time.

Kathryn Kelly's not guilty plea came after she had talked to Judge Vaughn in his office before the opening of court.

Her plea was not so much a surprise as that of her husband, from whom a guilty plea had been expected by authorities.

Armon Shannon was directed to hold himself in readiness and appear as a witness in the Kellys' trial.

Attorneys for Berman and Skelley gave notice of appeal. The Minneapolis men are at liberty on $35,000 bonds.

To Adjust Affairs

Mr. and Mrs. Urschel were in the courtroom to hear the sentences.

Kathryn Kelly's face had a stare of despair as she heard her mother, Mrs. Shannon, sentenced to prison for the term of her natural life.

The seven persons sentenced were convicted by a jury a week ago after a trial lasting two weeks. All received their sentences very calmly.

The sentences came exactly 75

CONTAGELLO IS HELD ON DEADLY ATTACK CHARGE

Police Character Alleged To Have Used Railroad Spike

Tony Contagello, local police character, was arrested last evening by Patrolman John Bohnstiel near the stock yards east of the North-Western passenger station and taken to the city hall where he was locked up, shortly after Henry Penrose, who resides at 708 Broadway street, was taken by Patrolman Bohnstiel to the office of a physician, suffering from deep flesh wounds which he was reported to have received when attacked by Contagello in the vicinity of the passenger station.

According to the information secured by the arresting officer, Contagello attacked Penrose near the stock yards, east of the depot, about 4:30 yesterday afternoon, using an old railroad spike as a weapon. Deep gashes were made in Penrose's scalp and one deep flesh wound was inflicted in the side of his neck. Penrose succeeded in fighting off his attacker and made his way to the depot where he summoned police. Patrolman Bohnstiel responded to the call and after taking Penrose to the office of a physician, returned to the scene and found Contagello hiding.

An information charging Contagello with assault with a deadly weapon was filed with Judge Leach in the county court shortly before noon today. Judge Leach fixed the bond at $2,000 and continued the hearing until Monday morning at 9 o'clock, Contagello being returned to the county jail.

Young Lover Couldn't Live With-out Estranged Bride; Took Her To End Of Road With Him Last Night

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A young lover who would not live without his estranged bride took her to the end of the road with him today.

The bodies of the couple, each 20 years old, were found at a rural highway intersection this morning. Richard Alfini had shot his former wife, Oma, through the head and then killed himself.

They were married at Woodstock in September a year ago. They separated in January, and the bride obtained an annulment in March, alleging that Alfini's parents, whom she described as wealthy, objected to her coming to their home to live.

FORMER OFFICERS OF JACKSONVILLE BANK CONVICTED

Dunlap, Goebel Are Found Guilty Of False Entry Charges

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Millard F. Dunlap and William G. Goebel, president and cashier of the defunct Ayers National Bank at Jacksonville, were convicted on false entry and conspiracy charges by a federal court jury today.

Judge Charles G. Briggie announced he would rule October 14 on motions for a new trial in behalf of the 76-year-old Dunlap, who once was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and Goebel. Sentencing was deferred.

Both defendants were permitted their freedom without additional bail.

Dunlap faces another federal court trial on charges of misapplication of funds of the Ayers National Bank, which was Jacksonville's leading financial institution when it crashed last November. Named with him in the pending indictment is Andrew Russell of Jacksonville, his former partner who has served as State Treasurer, State Auditor and Pardon Board member.

In Sealed Verdict

The sealed verdict was read in court at 9:30 A. M. W. St. John Wines and H. E. Fullenwider, of Springfield attorneys who represented the bankers, immediately took steps to appeal the conviction.

Taking of evidence, which lasted two days, was marked by testimony that Dunlap had said the bank was not required to pay interest on large deposits of state funds when Oscar Nelson was State Treasurer in 1924. This statement, made by a Department of Justice accountant, was denied out of court by Nelson.

Nelson today issued the following statement in connection with testimony that the Ayers National Bank at Jacksonville paid no interest on state deposits:

Nelson's Statement

"The records of the State Treasurer's office will show that the Ayers National Bank of Jacksonville paid interest on all state deposits monthly at the same rate that other banks paid where active accounts were carried.

"This bank was shown no special favors while I was State Treasurer and received deposits strictly in accordance with their bid for funds as provided by law."

The government case was based on a loan of $30,000, later reduced to $25,000, made indirectly to Nelson, who endorsed a demand note for the amount and cashed the check.

Accused Of Deficit

Dunlap and Goebel were convicted of deceiving bank examiners by making entries to indicate that the semi-annual interest of $625 was paid regularly.

They were found guilty on three counts of making false entries and one of conspiracy. The maximum federal penalties are five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for making false entries and two years and $10,000 for conspiracy.

The defense, which had asked for a second continuance on pleas that Dunlap is ill, rested its case late yesterday without calling a witness. Long arguments for a directed verdict followed, but Judge Briggie ordered that four of the original thirteen counts should stand.

Dunlap and Goebel were tried and acquitted in June in Circuit Court at Jacksonville on charges growing out of the failure of their bank.

The jury took twelve ballots, deliberating until nearly midnight before reaching the verdict. Reports were that the vote was ten to two with a deadlock possible, until 11 P. M.

Neither of the defendants commented on the verdict, but their attorney indicated that every means of appeal would be used in an effort to escape sentence.

METHODISTS AT ODDS OVER NATIONAL DEFENSE

Rock River Conference Heard Argument On Larger Armaments

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Delegates to the Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church were at odds today on the subject of national defense following a spirited discussion on the subject.

Arguments in favor of increased armaments for the United States were voiced yesterday by Attorney George Blott of Joliet who blamed the World War on pacifists.

"We are sitting on a powder can now that might blow up at any minute," he said. His statement bringing a response from Warren G. Clark of Berwyn, that "if we are sitting on a powder can, why buy more powder?"

The conference gave its support to the National Recovery Act and defeated proposed amendments which characterized it as an attempt to establish national capitalism, and large fortunes as the greatest hindrance to economic recovery.

Turning to the liquor question yesterday, Dr. Almer Pennwell, chairman of the temperance and morals committee, said repeal of the eighteenth amendment had been admitted, "but we dedicate ourselves to the destruction of the liquor traffic."

Previously, the prohibition committee had submitted a report in which all members of the church were asked to become total abstainers.

To a question that if that meant that Methodists were now indulging, Dr. Ernest Freeman Tittle of Evanston, chairman of the Policies committee, replied that he feared it was "all too true."

Moran's "Boner" Is Regretted By Baseball's Chief

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—After a thorough investigation this morning, including interviews with the principals baseball Commissioner Landis indicated no further disciplinary action would be taken against Heinie Manush, Washington outfielder, who was banished by Umpire Charles Moran in the fourth game of the world series. At the same time it was understood the Commissioner "regretted" the drastic action taken by Moran after the dispute at first base.

The more or less official reaction that Moran pulled a "boner" was based on the Commissioner's well known dislike for putting any player out of a world series game short of an unquestionably "overt act" or a plain attempt to commit violent damage upon the person of an umpire or opponent. The 12-year record of the Landis administration is that no player previous to Manush had ever been put out of a championship game.

After talking with the two principals, Commissioner Landis said: Moran's report is that Manush struck at and grazed him with his hand as he ran past the umpire a few feet beyond first base on the putout which started the dispute. Manush tells me that he brushed Moran as he went by, that this was unintentional and that he had no thoughts of hostility toward the umpire at that time. It is true that Manush later used very strong language.

OBJECTIONS TO PUBLIC WORK IN CITY ARE HEARD

Council's Proposals Attacked In The County Court

Public hearings in objections to local improvement ordinances which have been passed by the city council and have been filed in the county court, got under way this morning. Objections to the program were represented by H. C. Warner, J. O. Shauls and the firm of Dixon, Devine, Bracken & Dixon. Four local improvements are included in the list which have been filed for confirmation.

Ex-Mayor Mark D. Smith and Robert H. Howell took the witness stand this morning and testified for the objectors to the proposed widening and resurfacing of Galena avenue from River to Third streets.

At noon the hearing was recessed until Thursday morning of next week at 9 o'clock.

In commenting upon the proposed widening and resurfacing of Galena avenue one of the attorneys representing objectors stated today:

"We are not entirely opposing the proposed improvement, but are strictly opposed to the plan as presented. We would not object to the taking of two feet from each side of the street, which would leave sufficient walk space. Under the plan presented by the city, there would be insufficient space for walks."

"As to the proposed make-shift resurfacing plan, a new cement street would be far preferable to this proposed resurfacing substance which is only temporary and would not improve the street."

LONG NATION-WIDE SEARCH IS FRUITFUL

Brought To Light By Bizarre Death Of Factor Friend

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A relentless search from New York to Texas by federal operatives today brought under arrest a score of alleged members of an inter-state mail robbery gang in six cities and provided solution to a daring quarter-million-dollar Chicago robbery.

Brought to light by the bizarre death of Edgar Lebensberger, Chicago night club operator, the solution of the robbery revealed amazing ramifications of underworld operations. In their untiring ten months' search the federal agents recovered about $150,000 of the loot.

The Chicago robbery took place last Dec. 6. Five robbers snatched bundles of bonds from two carriers of registered mail shortly after they left the central postoffice en route to a bank.

Expect More Arrests

The other defendants were implicated in the disposal of the bonds. About $2,000 of the stolen securities were recovered from a closed bank in southern Illinois. Others were found in Texas. Federal authorities refused to tell the exact locations, saying additional arrests might be made.

Four men had been arrested in Chicago, and four other persons were held in Denver. Walter Johnson, in charge of postal inspectors here, said five had been arrested in Kansas City, three in New York and others in Minneapolis and Boston.

Johnson fixed the loot in the robbery at $250,000. Previous reports had placed it as high as half a million and $750,000.

Doubts Suicide Theory

Lebensberger was found shot to death early yesterday in his palatial home on Lake Shore Drive here. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "suicide while temporarily insane," but U. S. Dist. Attorney Dwight Green indicated a belief the night club operator had been slain.

"There were plenty of reasons for persons to desire Lebensberger's death," Green said. A pistol was found near Lebensberger's hand, but Green and others pointed out there were no powder burns about the bullet wound in his forehead.

The night club owners body was found a few hours before it was revealed he had been indicted with John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former state legislator, and Joe Sans, a credit manager in Lebensberger's cafes, in connection with the robbery.

Were "Prime Movers"

The other two were held on $50,000 bond. Federal officials said none of the three took part in the actual robbery but that they were "prime movers" in the case; that the five gunmen probably were only tools for the higher-ups.

Two other Chicagoans, Solomon Stern, a bond salesman, and Clarke B. Richie, an attorney, were reported to have been named in secret indictments and released on bonds of $10,000 and $5,000 respectively.

Against Lebensberger, one-time broker and sportsman, and the other two Green said were nine indictments each, eight charging possession of stolen bonds and one charging conspiracy. It was revealed by Green that Stern, a bond broker, had been arrested previously and released on $5,000 bond.

Suspects Surprised

The arrests of McLaughlin and Sans came in quick order and as surprises to the men, the former who served in the state Assembly almost a quarter of a century ago, being picked up in his Clark street restaurant. Green admitted that Lebensberger probably had learned ahead of time of his indictment, generally taken as the cause of his death by those who maintain he committed suicide.

The District Attorney said he would investigate the supposed leak by which Lebensberger learned of the jury action.

Among those questioned at the inquest was the widow, Louella, who said she was at the home of her sister-in-law seeking aid in dissuading her husband from committing suicide after repeated threats.

"Mr. Lebensberger was quite depressed," she testified. "He had been struggling to make both ends meet and had been subjected to frequent spells of despondency. This had been going on for years." She was the son of LaFayette Lebensberger, wealthy distiller, and was reputed to have inherited a large fortune. At one time police said he was the associate of Ted Newberry, and as a result was questioned last spring when the gangster's body was found riddled with bullets.

Morrissey announced today a $500,000 mail robbery in Chicago last December was virtually solved with the arrest here of three men and a woman and the suicide in Chicago of Edgar B. Levensberger.

Those held were:

Theodore Norrell, 27, Denver.

Mrs. Bernice Sullivan, 32, of Chicago, who officers said resided at Norrell's home with his mother.

Francis Sullivan, 43, of Chicago, husband of Mrs. Sullivan.

Morrissey said a fifth person, Robert E. Bartlett, former private detective, is sought here for questioning in connection with the case.

Howell is held for investigation for alleged activity in attempting to dispose of $125,000 worth of bonds from the mail robbery. Morrissey said, Norrell was associated with Howell, the Federal official claimed.

The arrests were made after Morrissey said he learned Howell attempted to sell some of the bonds at 75 cents on the dollar.

Morrissey claimed Bartlett contacted Norrell and Howell with a proposal that they make arrangements for the sale of the bonds.

The Sullivan became acquainted with Bartlett, they said, on a train enroute to Denver from Chicago. They denied knowledge of the allegedly stolen bonds and Morrissey said they were "inclined to believe their story."

"I can think of several reasons why Levensberger may have been murdered according to the code of the underworld," said Green. "However, whether he was slain by someone else or killed himself, I can not say because I do not know all the facts in the case."

He refused to state his reasons, but said they were woven into the robbery for which McLaughlin and Sullivan, also were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday. They were arrested immediately and taken to the Du Page county jail in lieu of $50,000 bonds.

Clad in Pajamas
Levensberger's body, clad in silk pajamas, was found in his "Desdemona's Palace" home.

The house became known as "Desdemona's Palace" a few years ago when it was designed by the late Martin Roche, architect, for a wealthy young couple who had become enamored of the palazzo facing the Grand Canal in Venice, and which legend held was the home of the tragic Desdemona in Shakespeare's "Othello."

The robbery in which Levensberger, operator of the "225" Club, McLaughlin and Sullivan were indicted was the daylight holdup of two postal employees in the coop last December 6 by five masked men. Green described the trio as the "prime movers in the case," and added that several other indictments had been returned and suppressed, among them being one naming Richard "Red" Levensberger.

Lead in Closed Bank
Postal inspectors had been working steadily on the case since uncovering a lead in the discovery of $150,000 of unclaimed bonds in a closed Texas bank. The exact status of the trio in the plot was that they figured in schemes to dispose of the loot, Green indicated.

"I cannot give out any details on Levensberger, McLaughlin or Sullivan," he said. "Our investigation is still continuing and the surface has just been scratched. There will be further action."

NRA'S GENERAL COUNSEL ADMITS MISCONCEPTION

Hadn't Been Told Of the Changes Made In Steel's Code

Washington, Oct. 7—(AP)—Donald Richberg, general counsel for the Recovery Administration, today attributed to his own misconception of union contracts with commercial mines the misunderstanding between steel corporation owners and the administration on inclusion of the "check-off" in their agreement with President Roosevelt.

He made this statement upon his return to Washington in commenting to newsmen on an assertion by Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA Administrator, that he was amazed at the attorney's interpretation of the disputed point.

The general Appalachian contract, Richberg pointed out, contained no provision for the check-off deduction of union dues from miners' pay. Supplemental district contracts in western Pennsylvania provided for it.

Richberg said he did not know of that supplemental provision when he told the steel men the check-off would not be included in the "working conditions" they agreed to.

"I want to be perfectly square," Richberg said. "The steel men are perfectly correct in saying that I told them the check-off was not involved."

Refusal of the steel corporations to give their miners the check-off led to continuation of the strike which President Roosevelt hoped to settle today at a White House conference.

Meanwhile, mine operators of west Kentucky and officials of the United Mine Workers and Independent Miners Union were summoned by the National Labor Board to a hearing October 12 on the dispute involving refusal of the operators to recognize the United Mine Workers.

Charges filed before the board are that the Independent Union is a company union and that operators have discharged miners in large numbers for refusing to join it, despite the legal guarantee that workers can organize as they see fit.

To Study Report
The hearing followed investigations last month by a board representative whose report together with other information has been studied by Gerard Swope and John L. Lewis as a committee of the board.

Included in the evidence is an advertisement by the Operators' Association of Hopkins, Webster and Christian counties, Kentucky, declaring that "once for all we state we will not recognize or contract with the U. M. W. of A. or John L. Lewis. We never will contract with the U. M. W. of A. We will not knowingly work any man who belongs to the U. M. W. of A."

The advertisement said every company in the association had made a "closed shop" contract with the independent union and that this contract has been filed and recognized at Washington.

The recovery administration was refused to approve any closed shop contracts.

WESTERN ROADS REDUCE RATES TO BOOST BUSINESS
Chicago, Oct. 7—(AP)—Impetus was given Horace Greeley's famous advice, "Go west, young man," today in the action of western railroads in reducing passenger fares and cutting Pullman charges one-third in an effort to stimulate business.

The new scale, cutting the basic rate from 3.6 a mile to as low as two cents a mile in some cases, was adopted yesterday by the executives for a six-month trial period beginning December 1st.

In addition to eliminating the Pullman surcharge which amounts to a third of the cost of a Pullman ticket, the members of the Western Association of Railway executives decided on the following scale:

A basic rate of 3 cents a mile for one-day tickets.

A rate of two and one-half cents a mile for round trip tickets. The time limit of which are greater than 10 days.

A rate of two cents a mile, at the discretion of individual roads, for round trip tickets with a 10-day limit, or a rate of two cents a mile for one-way travel in day coaches only.

The three and two and a half cent rates are mandatory and tickets so issued are to be honored in all classes of equipment.

Roads represented at the meeting included the Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Chicago & North-Western, Union Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

Bailey and Bates will be taken to prison immediately, Federal authorities said. One will go to Leavenworth penitentiary, the other to Atlanta prison, but the assignments were not disclosed.

Mrs. Shannon will remain in jail for ten days to execute papers disposing of her property.

Large Crowd Present
Shannon was ordered released under $10,000 bond during his 60-day leave.

A large crowd packed the small courtroom and overflowed into the corridors and the streets.

Immediately after the sentencing, the prisoners were returned under heavy guard to their county jail cells.

Prosecution counsel said they believed Kathryn Kelly's plea of not guilty was made in hopes she may yet aid her mother, whose case will be appealed.

Reports that the Kellys have become estranged since their capture were not substantiated by surface indications today. The two sat side by side in the courtroom and conferred frequently with their attorney, John R. Roberts of Enid.

HYMN TO THE NIGHT
HEARD the trailing garments of the Night
Sweep through her marble halls!
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls!

I felt her presence by its spell of night,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm majestic presence of the Night,
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the Night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the midnight air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy Night! from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of Care,
And they complain no more.

EVENING GOWNS GROW GLAMOROUS

Mode Combines Frills With Modernity

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
PARIS—Evening gowns have rarely been so glamorous and romantic as they are this fall. They have all the softness and feminine allure of the pre-boyish styles epoch, without any of the over-trimmed and ponderous effect of those days. So that today, however, practically a woman may have to dress during the day time, she can indulge in romance in the evening.

Frills, basques, tunics, draperies and other almost disconcertingly feminine turberlows are all in again, but they are all used with that restraint and subtlety which is so essentially modern. The technique of cut is more than ever at a premium, so is the knowledge of the natural feminine form and the way in which trimming or "masses" should be distributed. The result is a mode which, although faintly reminiscent of the 1900's, is in reality essentially 1933.

Beauty, not eccentricity, is at a premium today. Never have fabrics been so luxurious without ostentation. Colors are deep and rich of tone, and while black still remains intrinsically smart, it demands a note of relieving color or the use of transparent effects to offset the too somber note.

Lame Comes Back
Lame has made its reappearance, having lost all the stiffness and too-metallic look which it so often had before, in colors as soft and texture as pliable as any silk. The beautiful surahs and moires of old, utilized in a new way, add their quota of splendor to evening styles together with the varied and sumptuous velvets which always maintain their flavor.

There are also some unexpected combinations of fabrics to be noted in the new evening gowns. Chanel combines white organdie with lame and velvet for very formal wear in the guise of deep scalloped flounces. Fur borders hems and décolletés. Coque feathers are also used in very decorative ways on evening gowns, as well as soft ostrich fronds, and agrettes, or clever imitations are used to form upstanding epaulets, providing an even softer frame to the fact that the frills so popular this season.

A Popular Brown Velvet
Worth's most successful model with buyers is a brown panne velvet with a beautiful silver sheen to it, the cape sleeves of which are bordered with tiny matching curled feathers. The dress itself is cut on straight, fitted lines to the hips, where the skirt falls in long, supplé folds. The bodice has a generous square décolleté with two strap clips. A band of the material winds around the natural waistline.

Waistlines, by the way, are normal, but despite the Lady Lou flounces and the basques of the 90's, Paris still maintains the slim and fitted hipline. Décolletés, when they are not square back and front show at times a more generous expanse of back, perhaps attenuated by strap effects, but nearly always quite high in front. There are sleeves to all informal dinner gowns and to many of the very formal evening gowns.

New Hat Designs
The evening hat or restaurant hat is definitely a feature of the winter styles theme, fashioned of velvet, feathers or both these elements combined with net. Molyneux shows a stunning all-black creation trimmed with the old-fashioned bird of paradise sweeping under the wearer's chin. Marcel Rochas's musqueter hats of black velvet, complete with long ostrich feather trimming, offer a new note by displaying the forehead. Patou's evening hats are also worn off the face, but the evening hat more generally tilts over slightly on one side and is pulled over the brow.

At the Century of Progress in Chicago, in the Horticultural Building, is a painting of Mr. Jensen's Rock River Snow Scene, and at the Home Planning Building is a painting of the Court of Lions in New Orleans, known as the Night Prowler. These paintings were selected as outstanding. In addition, Carson, Pirie, Scott have arranged and now have on exhibition of Mr. Jensen's painting in their art gallery. Mr. Jensen has been honored by being selected to represent Oak Park artists during Illinois Week at the Illinois Hotel House, through October, 1933. He was selected from a group of artists whose work is of outstanding merit.

Mr. Jensen will leave Monday for the Smoky Mountains in Tennessee, to execute a special commission from a client for a painting of scenery in that locality.

The art exhibit in the Illinois Host House consists of some seventy odd paintings.

The artists, including Mr. Jensen, were chosen by the boards of various art organizations in Illinois, among them the Association of Painters and Sculptors, The North Shore Art League, The Chicago Galleries Association, The Palette and Chisel Club, The Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, The Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago, The South Side Art Association, The Chicago Society of Artists, The Art Institute Alumni Association, and the Chicago Society of Miniature Painters.

Fish-Howard Wedding Celebrated

Last evening at 8 o'clock at the Christian parsonage Miss Mildred Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Fish of Dixon and Vernon Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howard of Amboy, were united in marriage, by Rev. Barnett. The single ring ceremony being used.

The young couple were attended by the bride's sister, Miss Dorothy Fish, as bride's maid and Lewis Mulkins as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fish, parents of the bride also witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was prettily attired in wine colored transparent velvet, with accessories to match. She wore a shoulder corsage of Talliman roses and baby breath. Her bridesmaids wore a frock of wine and white travel print with black accessories. Her corsage was the same as the bride's.

After the ceremony the young couple returned to the bride's home where a reception was held for a few intimate friends and relatives of the couple. Dainty refreshments were served, and the table where the bride cut her cake was prettily decorated in pink and white.

After the couple received many hearty congratulations they were given a merry ride about the town. When they returned from their ride they left immediately for a short honeymoon at the Century of Progress.

The bride and groom are both popular in this vicinity. The groom is employed at Beier's Bakery.

When they return from their trip in a few days, they will be at home to their many friends in their newly furnished apartment at 1213 W. Fourth st.

Social for Brethren Young People

The young people of the Brethren church had a very interesting social at the parsonage Friday night. After the meeting was called to order by the president, Paul Thompson and devotions were conducted, the following officers were elected: president, Lena Bowers; vice-president, Lyle Myers; secretary-treasurer, Marie Thompson. The executive committee will appoint the various committees which will be announced later. After considering a number of questions pertaining to the work of the society the program was changed to social activities and a number of games were played. If a hearty laugh will help in developing good dispositions, surely every one had at least one good point in that direction, for every one did their share of laughing. After refreshments were served it was time to go to their homes and as good byes were said all promised to be at the next meeting.

An appetizing lunch for the Century of Progress visitor at Wainwright's.

MEETING THE PAYROLL.

Commenting upon the assertion of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that congress should provide a 5-day week of thirty hours in the recovery code, Arthur Brisbane says:

"An important point is sometimes overlooked, namely, that in planning hours and wages, you must also plan for somebody to pay the wages."

Of course, everybody knows that. It only does not seem to be in good form to talk about it. We must consider wages as something that floats down from the sky, and we grab for it. The organization that has the largest number of grabbers get the most.

Why is it that so few people stand up on their feet and say that wages can not be paid long unless the person or corporation that pays them is operating at a profit? We talk volubly about increasing wages to be paid by the employer and about shortening the hours the worker shall work, but it seems not to occur to any one that out of that transaction a profit must issue to the investor, or at least he must break even, or the shop must be shut.

Calvin Coolidge uttered commonplace truths and there was some jesting about such utterances. Yet it is worth while often for a person who has a large audience to impress the members with forgotten truths. When the depression was younger and there still were illusions about maintaining wage rates of the inflated period, Mr. Coolidge, in one of his daily syndicated articles, expressed himself on the subject, saying:

"Almost daily some one in Washington is urging the maintenance of the present wage scale. But wages can not be paid without ready money. * * * Those in authority who are asking for the maintenance of wages will have to give some thought to helping to provide the income for their payment."

Such utterances of plain truths as that ought not to offend, yet most of us seem tongue-tied and unable to utter the axioms of economics unless they chant about more pay and shorter hours.

Somebody has to meet the payroll and he has to get the money out of his business.

HORNER HOBBLIES LEGISLATURE FOR CHICAGO.

Governor Horner has hobbled the Illinois general assembly so that in its special session just convened it can not pass the Lantz bills, vetoed by the governor providing means by which Chicago can raise some of its own money for upkeep of unemployed.

In its regular session the assembly passed bills sponsored by Senator Lantz and backed by the people of the agricultural sections providing that the county of Cook, the towns in Cook county, the city of Chicago may lay taxes to support the unemployed, so Chicago would not have to go to Washington and then to Springfield threatening riots in order to get the federal government and state governments to provide the money needed. It was understood by representatives of the agriculturalists that the governor favored the legislation, they say.

When the assembly had adjourned and could not repass the bills, Governor Horner vetoed them, announcing that he did so because the Cook county board did not want the authority given. The bills did not compel use of the authority, they merely gave it.

When it appeared that Governor Horner was about to call the assembly into special session to provide more relief for Chicago's unemployed, Senator Lantz announced that he would reintroduce his bills.

When the call was made public it appeared that the governor so had worded it that consideration of anything except an administration bill was precluded. In other words, the governor so maneuvered the situation that it will be impossible for the assembly in this session to pass a bill extending the authority of Cook county, the outside towns and the city of Chicago in providing for their own.

Why is Chicago so determined that it shall not have the same authority to take care of its own that other communities have? Why is the governor so determined that the Lantz bills shall not become law?—Moline Dispatch.

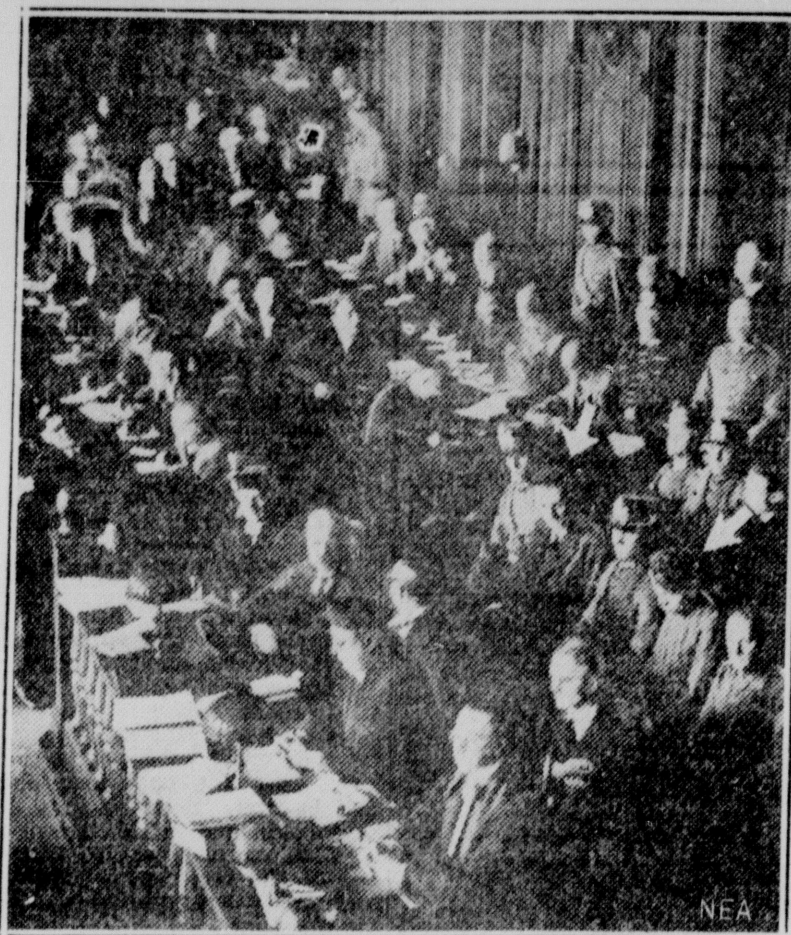

PUBLICITY IS NEEDED.

It is reported in New York that Wall Street believes that the renewal of the Senate's investigation into banking and speculation abuses is going to be killed off. It is an open secret that Wall Street has exerted all the pressure it can muster to prevent further disclosures like those of the Morgan investigation a few months ago.

This attitude is a familiar one, but one would have thought that the events of the last few years would have made even the die-hards see the absurdity of it. Trouble isn't caused by those sensational disclosures; it is caused by the abuses which lie beneath the disclosures, and we can't get back to full health until these abuses have been given the bright light of publicity in which we can correct them and prevent them from happening again.

You must give your time and money to the cause of charity and you must do it for the love of God.—Alfred E. Smith.

Hate Blazes in German Fire Trial

Bitterness has reached a new height in the Reichstag fire trial in Leipzig, Germany, with the Nazi case perceptibly shaken by attacks of the defense. Sensation of the trial was provided by confession of Marinus van der Lubbe, young Dutch Communist, indicated by arrow at right, as he sits in the courtroom, strongly guarded. The other arrow points to Ernst Torgler, German Communist leader, the other chief defendant.

Neighbors discovered a roof fire

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When all the Tinkles were on the shore, they heard weec weec very loudly roar. "We can't go away and leave our raft. We'll lose it, sure enough."

"With vines I will very shortly make a rope. We will tie it to a stake." The others helped and weec Dotty shouted, "That's the stuff!"

"You've surely tied it good and tight, and now it is bound to be all right. We couldn't build another one just like it if we tried."

"We don't know how long we'll stay here. We may find naught to bring us cheer. In that case we'll be ready for another case part ride."

Then back into the trees they went and about a half an hour was spent in picking large blackberries. "Gee, they're good," one Tiny cried.

"The rest of you can wait until I stuff. I am going to get my fill. These are the nicest tasting berries I've ever spied."

"Well, don't get sick," snapped Scouty. "Gee, you'd better take advice from me. I will only eat enough to satisfy my appetite."

The other Tinkles took his tip. Then they continued on their long trip. They'd walk a little while and then they would run with all their might."

Soon Goidy said, "I am all tired out. I will have to rest a while. No doubt you all would like to do the same. Let's sit down on the ground." "Oh, I would rather walk than sit," said Dotty. "I'll look around a bit." She walked a ways and then she yelled, "Oh, come, see what I have found."

The others ran to where she was. They all were very thrilled, because they saw a small log cabin. "Who is in it?" Coppy cried.

"Why, I don't know," said weec Dotty. "Gee, if one of you will come with me, I will knock upon the door and try to find out what is inside."

(The Tinkles find the cabin empty in the next story.)

Daily Health Talk

BLUSHING AND FLUSHING
While not exactly disease conditions blushing and flushing sometimes plague their sensitive victims.

Blushing represents a sudden engorgement and loosening up of the blood vessels in the skin of the face and body. The blushing is effected by the sympathetic nervous system, even as are its opposite, pallor and blanching. The former is due to the relaxation of the superficial blood vessels and the latter to their quick contraction.

Occasionally flushing may be indirectly due to infections in the mouth, nose and throat, and in the head spaces or sinuses. More commonly flushing may be associated with passing infections of the upper respiratory tract.

Experience also has taught us that in certain cases of flushing the condition may be associated with abdominal trouble, not as a result, but rather as a product of the same underlying condition which is responsible for both the flushing and the abdominal condition.

There are reasons to suspect that there is an endocrine or glandular condition behind blushing and flushing both of which can be brought on by a variety of emotional states.

Treatment of this condition is complicated. It requires psychological support of the patient largely aimed at making him forget his tendency to blush or not mind it when he cannot control it.

When there is an underlying infection in the head or in the upper respiratory tract, treatment of his condition is of course indicated.

Occasionally a mild sedative takes the edge off the sensitiveness and contributes to the lessening of the embarrassment and blushing of the victim.

Where flushing is associated with gastric disturbances, there is usually present an underlying nervous condition which must receive attention, the sufferer being taught to take life less anxiously, and at a slower pace.

PILLAR OF SALT

By L. L. R.

American youth does not change greatly from one crop to the next. Its environment moves along in step with the progress of time, working certain changes in Young America's habits. But youth always carries along on the crest of progress in much the same manner as did its previous counterpart.

Let us observe any lot of American youth we might pick at random and follow it along until it is no longer youth. For example, the ones who came up shortly after the war.

Now suppose the city happens to be Rochester, New York. We find that the influence of Rudolph Valentino is great, his pictures being shown to capacity crowds in the movie theaters. And it so happens that he is to appear in person with his wife, Natacha Rambova, at the Convention Hall.

We attend. The hall is packed with representatives of Young America, with here and there a sprinkling of the "flippant" forces. There are no seats, except in the galleries, which might indicate that we will dance. We stand as near the stage as possible. At last

They Shake on Kidnaping Victory

Joy reigns in the prosecution camp in the government's battle on crime, with seven defendants convicted of the Urschel kidnaping in Oklahoma City. Herbert K. Hyde, left, here goes into a victory clinch with Joseph B. Keenan, as the verdict was returned. Hyde is U. S. district attorney and Keenan is the assistant attorney general directing the federal crime drive.

the Argentine orchestra appears, followed by the hero of the hour and his wife.

We see the tango, danced as only Valentino can present it. The exhibition is over, and we stand with mouths agape while the idol talks to us about the fragility of popularity. Then we ourselves dance to Valentino's personal orchestra.

We take stock of the crowd. In the dress of the boys, hardly young men, we find Valentino. Bell-bottom trousers; form-fitting coats which flare out at the bottom; loops instead of button holes; and most of the suits in dark blue with a pencil stripe. And not only do the boys dress like Valentino; they try to dance with his grace. As for the girls, we know they keep scrap-books in which they cram his pictures.

Valentino died at the peak of his career. If he had been less of a hero, he might have proved his hidden talents as a genuine artist. His influence was tremendous, even if for but a brief period.

Then came "Plastic Youth." This book, often censured, turned the "sheiks" into "collegians" almost overnight. Departed were the Latin clothes; returned were those of Brooks. Overshoes flapped, and Young America became suddenly "collegiate."

Then it was only a matter of months until the arrows from Cupid's bow prodded the kit-and-kibbodie into the realm of tax-paying citizenry.

HEINIE MANUSH NOW CENTER OF MUCH ARGUMENT

He Is First Player To Be Banished From World
Series Contest

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)
Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Henry Emmett Manush, the first ball player to be put out of a world series game in the 12-year administration of Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, today became the storm center of one of the hottest controversies baseball has known in years.

Certainly it provoked the wildest world series outburst since Sam Rice, another Washington outfielder, made his celebrated but disputed catch of Earl Smith's drive as he toppled into the bleachers in the 1925 series here with Pittsburgh. Then, as now, the issue was carried to the Commissioner, although there is nothing Landis can do afterward, so far as an umpire's ruling on the field is concerned.

To Play Today
"All I can tell you is that Manush will play in the fifth game today and that any action in regard to a fine, if any, for his running with Umpire Moran, will be postponed until after the series," declared the Commissioner.

Whereupon he summoned all four of the series arbiters to a conference in his hotel suite this morning to deliberate fully in the circumstances of the close decision at first base in the sixth inning of yesterday's game, the upshot of which was a hot dispute between Manush and Umpire Moran and the subsequent banishment of the Washington slugger.

Feeling Is Bitter
President Clark Griffith of the Senators as well as Will Harridge, President of the American League, expressed the opinion that Manush should not have put Manush out of the game but, instead, made a report to Landis for the Commissioner to act upon as he saw fit, by fine or otherwise. Feeling in the American League circles naturally was no less keen because Moran—the "Uncle Charley" of football coaching fame—is a National League arbiter.

The election of Manush, followed by the loss of an 11-inning thriller that was so close and yet so desperately far from their grasp in its closing stages, left the entire Washington team in a fighting mood that forecast the possibility of fireworks today.

ILLINOIS, IOWA AGREE ON RIVER HUNTING RULES

License From Either State Is Good Be- tween Banks

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The State Fish and Game Commission today announced an agreement with the Illinois Department of Conservation for the hunting of migratory waterfowl along the Mississippi river.

The agreement permits the residents of either state, holding a resident hunter's license, to hunt or shoot these waterfowl during the open season anywhere along the river where it forms a boundary between the two states.

Hunters, however, are not permitted to land or hunt on any wing dam or bar annexed to the mainland, or any islands taxed by the bordering state or on any privately owned island.

A similar agreement affecting the Missouri river hunting territory was made with Nebraska authorities a week ago.

I. D. Brode, State Game Warden, said the agreements will simplify enforcement of the hunting laws and give the sportsmen a wider range.

Mother Of "Chick" Evans, Famed Golf Expert, Is Called

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Lena Young Evans, wife of Charles Evans, librarian and bibliographer, and mother of Charles (Chick) Evans, noted golfer, died today at her home after a long illness.

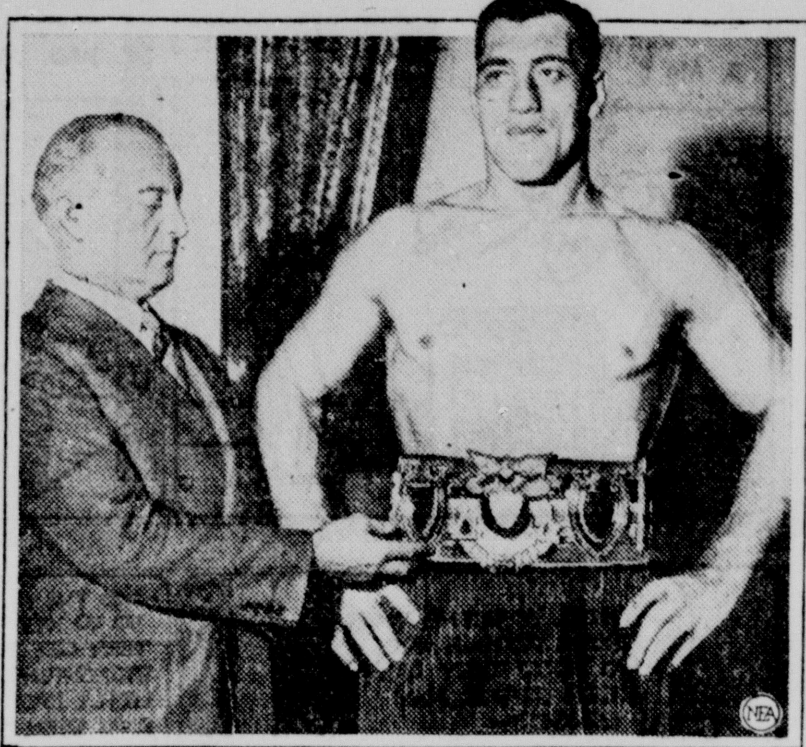

Mrs. Evans, a native of Ft. Worth, celebrated her golden wedding six months ago. In addition to the famous son, Chick, who won the national golf championship twice and set a record in winning the national open in 1916 that has not yet been broken, Mrs. Evans left another son, Elliott, a Chicago attorney, and a daughter, Mrs. Donald Jones, who long assisted her father in his work.

No woman perhaps ever trod more miles around a golf course than did Mrs. Evans in following the fortune of her son on the links. Chick was a boy wonder some 20 years ago; and until her health failed after a fall she almost always was with him on his marches to triumph or his trials to defeat.

ROCK FALLS WON FROM AMBOY BY ONE TOUCHDOWN

A Big Crowd Witnessed Amboy's First Home Defeat Of Year

(Telegraph Special Service.)
By Frances Lepperd

Amboy, Oct. 7.—Rock Falls repeated last year's 6 to 0 victory over Amboy on the local field Friday afternoon. Almost the entire student body and a large crowd of town folks witnessed the first defeat of the home squad on the home field this season. The game proved a hard fought contest from start to finish without a pause in the battling of the two crews.

The Rock Falls line appeared to be superior, as Thompson, the heavy fullback, plunged through the line for numerous gains. Fairfax, the visitor's quarterback, also did outstanding work in running back Amboy's punts. Trickett and Mickey were again the outstanding performers on Coach Jim Dominetta's squad. Rock Falls made four first downs to Amboy's two. The touchdown came in the fourth quarter with both teams fighting hard in an effort to prevent their goal lines being crossed. Thompson gave the ball at a stage when Rock Falls was dangerously close to Amboy's goal and on a line plunge with his interference opening a large hole, he crossed Amboy's goal for the only score of the afternoon. The attempt for the extra point failed, making the final score, Rock Falls, 6; Amboy, 0.

The teams lined up as follows:

Amboy	Walton	le	Winterland
	Rein	lt	Tourtillott
	Bryant	lg	Wunderlick
	Grimm	lg	Morgridge

(Telegraph Special Service.)

Princeton, Ill., Oct. 7.—The Princeton Tigers who have been traveling at a rapid clip so far this season, will swing into action again Sunday afternoon at Alexander Park when they will play the Kewanee All-Stars.

The Kewanee eleven has won three games this season and offers stiff competition to the Tigers, who are undefeated this year in semi-pro football, and who won considerable acclaim two weeks ago when they held the Chicago Cardinals to a 20-0 score. The Kewanee All-Stars have in their lineup three or four players who in past years have been members of the Princeton Tiger team.

Bennie Benson, promoter of the Tigers, has been ill for several weeks and is a patient at the Perry Memorial Hospital at Princeton. It is expected that he will be able to leave the hospital this week end, and the fans are hoping for his early and complete recovery.

The game Sunday afternoon will be called promptly at 2:30.

THE WEAR AND TEAR OF LIFE
By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

A reader puts the question to me point-blank: "How can we be sure that the various stresses of life, throughout long years of close association, will not lessen mutual love and respect for the life-partner with whom we so enthusiastically begin a new home?"

We cannot be sure, but if we know the danger we can do much to avoid it. The danger is very real, because life makes many changes in use before we know it. Unless we allow for the chemistry of experience, both in ourselves and in our life-partner, we are in for a shock.

In a marriage between two races it is almost sure to be so. Life and fiction are full of such cases. People drift or pull apart, drawn by forces they had not reckoned with. Often it is pitiful to see, but there is little, if anything, we or anyone can do to prevent it.

But if our partner alters, we do too. Traits of which we were hardly aware become active, and we are not the same. Often we are better, but not always so. The truth is we do not know ourselves, and many strange things come to light in the stress and strain of years.

The two dangerous times in marriage are at the beginning and in the middle. The initial adjustment is not difficult, if we have love and tact on both sides. It would be much easier and happier, if we were told a few simple physical facts which we ought to know.

In middle life, about fifty a radical change takes place in both of us. It is less dramatic in man than in woman, but not less real. If we then pass from passionate love to profound friendship, we are safe. If not, there is sure to be trouble. If not sheer tragedy.

But, again, if we are forewarned we are forearmed. In any case and all the time, marriage asks for faith, fortitude, patience, unselfishness, and a lively sense of humor. Above all it asks for love which, a poet has said truly, does not alter when it alteration finds. It all depends on ourselves, both of us, whether our marriage is a masterpiece, a mixture, or a mess, and each must go fifty-fifty.

Baseball Game

Franklin Grove's ball team got sweet revenge Sunday, when they evened up the score with Ashton, for the stinging defeat, Franklin received Labor Day. Ashton was given a good trouncing to the tune of 16 to 2. Both teams have won two games this season. Gilroy, pitching for Ashton, was greeted by a barrage of hits in the first inning, and was freely hit by his former team-mates until he was relieved in the eighth inning. Kenney, on the mound for Franklin, was master of the situation, pitching air-tight ball with the exception of the eighth inning when two hits and an error gave Ashton its only two tallies. Kenney fanned 16 batters and did not issue a single pass on balls.

That game closed the season for the local team and they wish to thank the public for the fine support they have given.

other counties have records with respect to tuberculosis control that parallel the experience in Ogle. They all point definitely to the fact that tuberculosis can be controlled under prevailing conditions, provided a reasonable amount of effort is spent in the right direction.

Practically all school children in Ogle County are inspected annually by the County Tuberculosis nurse. The result of this service reflects also in the health record. Ogle was one of the counties which experienced no loss of life to diphtheria during 1932 and up to June 30, 1933. An explanation of this record and good fortune is found in the report that points out numerous dates during the year when the nurse assisted physicians in giving toxoid to children.
